

Abstract

A mode converter including a silicon waveguide core deposited over a first silicon dioxide cladding layer. The silicon waveguide core is formed such that a first end of the silicon waveguide core has a larger cross-sectional area than a second end of the silicon waveguide core. The silicon waveguide core may include a vertical taper and/or a lateral taper.

2681635